

WELCOME

With today's increasingly hectic pace of life, we are all seeking ways to personally enrich our lives both artfully and conscientiously. This issue of the N Magazine explores the Modern Art of Living and ways to strike the balance that is right for you.

We have dedicated this sixth issue of the N Magazine to the Modern Art of Living and how it is expressed in form, style, culture, and the many other ways in which it can expand our horizons. To begin, we are proud to announce the 2006 launch of the new Le Cube. With its classic form available in four versatile colours, the Le Cube is an object d'art in itself, bestowing unto any space it occupies a touch of modernity.

In tune with modernity and art, gracing our cover and Entre Nous pages is Ambra Medda, the visionary director and co-founder of the most prestigious event of its kind, the Design Miami/ Basel. Ambra is joined by this issue's Solo guests who take a coffee break from the world of contemporary visual art to share their thoughts on the art of modern living. And chef Michel Richard's fantastic recipes are both an artistic and gastronomic delight, offering surprises to even the most discerning palates.

Another tasteful surprise for Club Members this season is the introduction of our new Nespresso Variations. Carefully developed to maintain perfect balance with the taste of their Livanto base, the three flavours Vanilla, Anise and Apple & Cinnamon are sure to please diverse palettes. We encourage you to try the flavoured Variations while quantities last. Besides our flavoured coffee innovation, don't forget to try Ensibuko, our 2006 Special Club from Uganda available for a limited time only. Uganda is now a major provider of quality coffee, despite the country's immense hardship.

Since we launched our AAA Sustainable Quality program in 2003, Nespresso continues to move forward in its commitment to sustainable coffee production practices. Now we want to pass on our experiences with the launch of the Nespresso AAA Summer Campus 2007, a two-week, hands-on learning experience on highest quality coffee cultivation and sustainability practices for students aged 18 to 28 realised in cooperation with our partner coffee farms and academic institutions in Costa Rica. We invite you to share the Call for Applications described here with your family and friends!

This edition explores the modern art of living – as a source and means of inspiration, pleasure and action. Enjoy the N Magazine and indulge in a Nespresso moment.
